

Science shows us that addiction is preventable, that treatment is effective, and that long-term recovery is a reality for over 23 million Americans.

This training explains addiction as a brain disease and demonstrates the brain's remarkable ability to adapt, heal and change in recovery.

The goal of the training is to equip community members with the knowledge and skills to speak effectively about addiction and sharing the message of hope and resilience of recovery.

The Science of Addiction & Recovery (SOAR) training has been delivered in hundreds of venues to thousands of people across the United States.

Initially delivered with funding from the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA), the training has opened up the conversation about addiction and recovery to a wide range of audiences, including:

Law enforcement
Schools and universities
Parent and family groups
Health care providers
Housing agencies
Child welfare agencies
Recovery support providers
& more

FORMAT

The morning session is filled with valuable content and visuals and the afternoon session includes participant practice, feedback, discussion and tips for effectively delivering the message. The presenter will use presentation slides, video clips and handouts. Interactive activities allow participants to practice using their new information in their local communities.

SCHEDULE

The training is designed as a full day 6.5 -hour event with two short breaks and an hour for lunch.

SIZE OF AUDIENCE

The ideal number of participants at one training is 40. This allows for greater interaction, discussion and practice. *Larger audiences may require a more tailored training and the possibility of a second trainer.

WHAT WE PROVIDE

One of Faces & Voices' skilled facilitators will come on-site to your location to deliver this valuable training. We provide a promotional flyer with your event information, a registration link and email confirmations (if desired), and all printed materials. Each participant receives a personalized Certificate of Completion. We provide guidance on logistics and promoting your event.

WHAT YOUR AGENCY PROVIDES

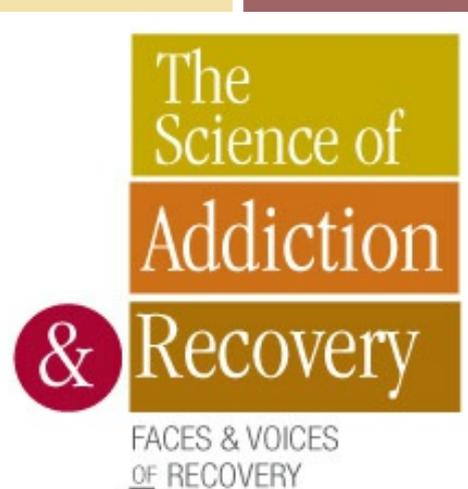

You will distribute the registration information to your target audience and provide the venue for the training, suitable for the format and size of audience. You will also provide audio visual capabilities including projector, screen, audio speakers. You will provide food and beverage, if applicable.

COST

The base rate for a full one-day training is $3,200 plus travel expenses. (The non-profit rate is $2,700).

REQUEST A TRAINING

To request a training, please complete the form on our website or call us at 1.202.737.0690. *Please plan ahead and allow 8 weeks advance notice when requesting a training.

CONTACT US

Faces & Voices of Recovery
840 First St. NE 3rd Floor
Washington, DC, 2002
1.202.737.0690

info@facesandvoicesofrecovery.org
www.facesandvoicesofrecovery.org